Question - Explain the causes & significance of the Home Rule Movement in India, highlighting the roles of Bal Gangadhar Tilak & Annie Besant. The Home Rule Movement was born not out of wartime enthusiasm but out of wartime disillusionment. The Indian expectations of responsible govt. collided with Imperial policy causing Nationalism to enter a new phase marked by demand for immediate self-govt or Home Rule. Causes/Events leading to All India Home Rule League ① Bal Gangadhar Tilak was released from Mandalay Jail in 1914 and started to think of ways of reconciling extremists with moderates. ② Annie Besant came to India in 1893 to work for Theosophical Society and she aimed for all India movement similar to the Irish Home Rule League. ③ Annie Besant in 1914 urged the Congress to accept mod extremist leaders again and as such in Bombay session of 1915, Congress amended its constitution to admit extremist delegates.

⑫

Strong opening that correctly identifies 'wartime disillusionment' as the catalyst for the Home Rule Movement.

You could strengthen your discussion of causes by mentioning economic factors like inflation and food shortages during WWI that fueled public support for self-rule.

④ Though in the same session, Besant's demand for home rule was rejected and she went on to launch her own league.

⑤ In 1916, Annie Besant and Tilak launched two separate leagues under the same alliance - All India Home Rule League.

⑥ In 1914, British war council unanimously passed a resolution to send Indian troops in foreign lands as IEF (Indian Expeditionary Forces), beginning India's direct involvement in World War - I. The Moderates & extremists hoped for constitutional reforms and self-rule but nothing really happened. This led gave a strong reason to both the factions to merge.

Significance of Home Rule League Movement

① Tilak's League - Tilak launched his league from Balapur in April, 1916 in Poona and created 6 branches in Central Province, Maharashtra, Berar and Kannataka.

He was able to garner support of roughly 1.5 lakh people as his league was very organized as compared to Besant's league.

Question -

c) His major focus was on vernacular education, self-rule and political awareness for which he distributed pamphlets in English, Marathi, Kannada & Gujarati.

d) He even face a case filed against him but he was successfully defended by Mohammad Ali Jinnah at Bombay High Court. Govt. failed to silence Tilak, showing his popularity as well.

② Annie Besant's League - She launched her league in Sept. 1916 from Madras. She created the headquarters at Adyar.

b) She got the support of George Arundale, B.P. Wadia for the cause.

c) She created 200 branches across India but due to being comparatively less organized than Tilak she didn't garner much support initially.

d) Her followers published newspaper - "Young India" and also launched "All India propaganda Fund" to support the distribution of pamphlets in regional and English languages.

Good comparative analysis of both leaders' organizational approaches, highlighting their complementary strengths.

Factual correction: 'Young India' was Gandhi's newspaper, not Besant's. Her main publications were 'New India' and 'Commonweal'.

e) the newspaper - "Commonweal" played a crucial role in spreading political awareness of self rule.

f) Annie Besant along with BP Wadia and Abundale were placed under house arrest in Octy which led to widespread protests across India and mounted great pressure on British authority.

"Shiva cut his wife in 52 pieces only to discover that he had 52 wives, the same happens to Govt. of India when it interns Mrs. Besant"

— Secretary of State Montague.

g) Besant displayed the home rule flag in Octy while under house arrest, as a symbol of India's quest for swaraj.

h) The mounted pressure by both Tilak & Annie Besant led to the August declaration by Edwin Montague and eventually led to the announcement of "Montague Chelmsford reforms".

i) On the suggestion of Tilak, Annie Besant was made the 1st women president of Congress session in 1917.
